NATIONS MOURN AT FLAG-DRAPED BIER OF DEAD

Many Thousands File Past Casket To Render Last Tribute to Unknown.

FLORAL WILDERNESS

Blossoms From Every Clime and Offerings From Every Nation Adorn Coffin.

Washington, Nov. 11.—A river of humanity, American men, women and children, Americans by heritage, Americans by election, flowed all day today and far into the night past the bier of the dead soldier, under the great dome of the Capitol. It flowed as the life blood of the nation itself—a slow but overwhelming torrent of human documents gathered to attest the valor of America's dead in France.

From early day until long after darkness had shrouded the city, the great stream surged up the eastern front of the rotunda four abreast, up the granite stairway, in through the huge doorway to pass solemnly, reverently, by the casket and its five guards, motionless as the statues of Lincoln and Grant at the far doorway which looked down on the moving spectacle.

Out through that doorway the stream passed, through the stately corridor and its marble stairway and down over the wide terraces of the western front to the homes in the city below. Each hour saw thousands make the slow journey of honor to the dead. Each hour saw new thousands pouring up the wide driveways that circle the great building to replenish the living stream.

That was the overshadowing element in the cycle of honors heaped upon this nameless soldier, this son of the people come home to claim the great reward his valiant heart had earned. And it was his own people, of every nook of the nation, that silently gave this reward more precious than any jeweled or carved token that governments of the world will place tomorrow above the still breast of the sleeper.

To one side of the throng that rolled ceaselessly by the flag-draped casket, a second unending ceremonial of honors for the dead went on. There great men gathered in Washington to deal with great affairs, came humbly to place their wreaths and roses at the bier. There came comrades, limping from wounds that brought them down in France. There came gray-haired veterans of old wars, moved to do honor to the young, stricken comrade of the last great struggle; there in ordered course came the Ambassadors, the Ministers and the special enyoys of governments around the world.

There were formal services here, always with the shuffling footsteps of the human river beyond merging with the prayers and the chants and the spoken tributes to the dead. There were some, like those wounded boys from France, who stood awed and abashed at the solemn majesty that had come to this comrade. They placed their wreaths in wordless praise, their wounds and the eyes of that great, endless, living river beyond making them awkward; their crutches and canes tapping on the cold stones as they shuffled back into the obscurity they craved.

Came, too, black-gowned women, many bowed and gray with age and sorrow, and all wearing in pride the golden star that tells of a son who died over there. They brought always with their flowers the great stars that bring to this unknown son of liberty a message from those comrades whose names stand above all others in the roll of the nation's servants; the great scroll of those who, like him, died for the flag.

SECOND VICTIM DIES

Elmer Ferris, Colored, Succumbs To Gunshot Wound.

Elmer Ferris, colored, about 23 years old, who was shot in the abdomen the morning of October 28 by Walter Johnson, colored, died at 7 o'clock last night at the Alexandria Hospital. His brother Charles Ferris, also claimed to have been shot by Johnson, at the same time died at the Alexandria Hospital November 4.

A coroner's jury summoned by Dr. T. M. Jones met last night at Demaine's mortuary chapel and after viewing the body adjourned till 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night when testimony will be heard.

Practically the same witnesses who testified before the coroner's inquest held over the body of the brother have been summoned for this inquest. Both men were shot by Johnson, it is alleged, and Johnson is being held by the police for the shooting. During the progress of the shooting a brother of the prisoner was shot in the leg. He is still a patient at the Alexandria Hospital and will recover.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Washington, Nov. 11.—The unknown American warrior is home at last. With all the honors that it is possible for a nation and a world civilization to bestow, the unidentified soldier, for whom the country mourned was laid to rest at Arlington this afternoon after ceremonies befitting the burial of kings and foreign potentates, Presidents and rulers of the world. Men and women in all degrees and holding positions high and low were there to pay their final tribute to the one who made the supreme sacrifice in the cause of his country and one whom thousands of mothers mourn today, feeling that perhaps the soil made sacred by the burial of this hero may contain the remains of their loved one who fought a gallant fight and died in order that the nation might live.

Never before in the past history of this hallowed spot has such an occasion been witnessed. The highest men of this nation as well as those representing foreign countries did homage to the unknown hero. Tonight he sleeps among his many comrades in arms, with whom he fought side by side. And the whole nation served as mourners.

If former President Wilson desires to see the opening of the arms conference and listen to the speech that will be made by his successor to put the conference in motion he may do so. He is one of an extremely limited number of private citizens at whose disposal a ticket to the opening of the conference has been placed.

The State Department has not yet heard whether Mr. Wilson will attend the opening session, but should he desire to do so even as late as tomorrow morning, the seat will be reserved for him. The presumption is, however, that the former President will not desire to attend the opening session as it is expected his exertions on Armistice Day will tax his strength to the utmost and he will desire to have a complete rest over Saturday. It is already well understood here that the former President will not utilize his proximity to the conference to attempt to influence it in any way during its sessions, either through the use of public statements or through interviews with the American or foreign delegates.

The stage was set today for the opening on Saturday of the conference on the limitation of armaments and Pacific and Far Eastern questions which is expected not only to remove the cause of a possible future war in the Pacific, but also to materially lessen the burdens of the world from expensive armaments and to make all future wars less probable through the creation of armies and navies on a purely defensive basis throughout the world.

There has been no secret meetings of the delegates of the various nations to perfect plans on this subject or that. There have been no conferences among the delegations to discuss how to meet the Japanese, or the British or the American position on any given subject, because, until this country announces a plan, the British, Japs and others will not be able to formulate positive plans for their own. There has, in fact, been a dearth of the plotting, scheming, intriguing and "fixing" that is so common to ordinary conferences, chiefly because this government has decided to have none of this preliminary arranging of affairs so that set programs may go through on greased skids.

Republican leaders, from high administration officials down, have not yet recovered from the shock they received on Election Day. In the State of Virginia especially the results were particularly distressing to them. Their representatives in the Old Dominion had been predicting great things for the Republican Gubernatorial candidate. But when the votes were counted, their disappointment grew by leaps and bounds. They are trying to pass the thing over by declaring that national issues were not at stake and that off-year results have no particular significance. But way, down deep in their hearts they see the hand writing on the wall and they will tell you confidentially that they have little hope of carrying the next Congressional elections. The voters of the country seem to have grown tired of Republican misadministration of the affairs of the people and the pendulum is about ready to swing the other way. Democrats are jubilant over the outlook and from now on they are going to work with a vim and vigor to secure control of the next national House of Representatives.

PLAYS FUNERAL MARCH

At the noon hour today Chopin's funeral march was played on a Columbia grafonola at the store of M. Ruben, and by the aid of a magnabox, the playing was heard for a considerable distance. Just as the clock tolled twelve Mr. C. Page Waller, proprietor of the store, spoke through the magnabox and called the attention of pedestrians to pause in honor of the unknown warrior. The new device known as the magnabox carries the voice a considerable distance. Many persons stopped to examine the device.

RELIEF TRUCK IS DAMAGED BY STREET CAR

Occurred This Morning In Front of Company's House.

OUT OF COMMISSION

Arthur Skillman, Driver, Escapes With Slight Injuries—Damage Estimated In Excess of $1,000.

The handsome truck of Relief Truck and Engine Company No. 1 was badly damaged shortly after 9 o'clock this morning when it was struck by an eastbound train over the Wastington-Virginia Railway just in front of the company's house on Prince street between Royal and Fairfax streets and Arthur Skillman, driver of the truck had a narrow escape from serious injury. Skillman, however, escaped with slight injuries to his shoulder and hip. The apparatus was being driven slowly out of the company's house at the time and the electric train was en route to Washington. It is stated that the truck was hurled a distance of at least nine feet. Skillman, driver of the apparatus, was not thrown from the vehicle.

A hurried examination made by the firemen revealed the motor support, the axle and the right hand fender broken and the fifty-five foot extension ladder was damaged. Firemen were unable to estimate the damage done to the engine.

It is expected that experts from New York will come here to give the apparatus an overhauling. The damage, it was thought, by those who examined the apparatus will be considerably in excess of $1,000.

The electric train, the police say, was in charge of Motorman Clarance Acres and Conductor Frank Edwards.

As a result of the accident this piece of apparatus will be out of commission for several weeks.

Following the accident the police appeared and obtained the names of witnesses and the case probably will be investigated tomorrow morning in the police court.

At the time the apparatus was being taken out of the house in order to clean the house, it is stated.

Armistice Day Messages To The Churches

The followng "Message" is issued by the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America to be read in the churches in their services on Armistice day:

Today we solemnize the valorous sacrificial service of those who went to take our part in the great war for the defending of the cause of world freedom and world peace. In bringing the body of the Unknown Soldier to our national cemetery, we symbolize our undying gratitude to him and to all whom he represents.

But this is not only a day of sacred and grateful remembering of those who gave themselves for their country and the cause to which their country pledged its all. It is a day when, turning from this fresh-made grave, we face the responsibility which their suffering and sacrifice have made ours. That responsibility, heightened by the fact that God has prospered us beyond other peoples, has prompted us to invite the leading nations to confer as to how the suffering, struggling peoples of the earth may be relieved of the crushing loads of armament and the suspicions and fears and animosities engendered by colossal military and naval equipment.

Let us raise thankful hearts to God, the Creator and Ruler of nations, for the measureless blessing He has bestowed upon us, and let us dedicate ourselves to the service of mankind. Let us pray that God's blessing, resting in special measure on this Memorial Day, may mark the beginning of a new era in human history. Let us pray that America as a nation may be filled with the spirit of that great Leader of Mankind who taught that men should love their enemies and that service is the true way of greatness and of life.

RESUME CASE MONDAY

If adjournment In Adams Will Contest Case Taken.

In the circuit court yesterday afternoon Judge S. G. Brent postponed the hearing of further testimony in the suit to break the will of Lewis M. Adams till Monday morning at 10 o'clock when further testimony will be heard. The case probably will go to the jury Monday or Tuesday. Some additional testimony will be heard Monday. The reason of the postponement was that a number of the jurymen desired to go to Washington today and take part in the services incident to the burial of the unknown warrior.

The suit is brought by Mrs. Mittie V. Adams and others.

Armistice Day, November 11th.

"Lest We Forget"

In Flanders Field

In Flanders fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly,
Scarce heard amidst the guns below.
We are the dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe!
To you from falling hands, we throw
The Torch. Be yours to hold it high!
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies blow
In Flanders fields.

By Lieut.-Col. John McRae, who died while on duty in Flanders.

OTHER UNKNOWN HEROES

By "The Drifter."

When the clocks throughout our land struck the hour of noon, the great heart of the American people offered up a silent tribute to the Unknown Soldier who made the Supreme sacrifice on the fields of France. For two minutes of this day we offered our silent prayers for the Unknown Dead. It was the least we might do, and yet we may pass on to those who will follow after us this golden page of our history, and in so doing, consecrate ourselves to the fulfillment of the cause for which they died. Buddy, your life was not given in vain, and those who lived will keep fresh the Great Right for which you have given all.

On this day made sacred by the trust of our Allied Dead we should stop a moment to pay another tribute to the other Unknown Heroes—our friend who crawled across No Man's Land and told us of the approach of an enemy. A friend like Mickey, the little yellow mongrel who attached himself for duty with the 1st Division. Mickey devoted himself to his friends, and when the test came, Mickey offered his life that his master might come back. Sergeant ——16th Infantry brought back the information of the German position, because Mickey with a low growl told of the approach of an enemy. Sgt.—— was suddenly attacked by two Germans of a patrol party, and then Mickey proved that his Doughboy training had not been in vain. Sgt.—— grappled with one of the Germans, and Mickey took one quick look at that hated grey-green uniform and leaped—a short struggle and Mickey passed on in the Last Review. Meanwhile his master had been able to use a pistol butt to good advantage on the head of his antagonist, and while the other was recovering from the surprise of Mickey's attack, made his escape in safety to the American lines. Mickey will not fill a page in the written history of our country, but his loyalty will live in the memory of those who knew him and appreciated his steadfast devotion to duty.

Then there was Gaston, a police dog on duty with the famous Blue Devils of France. Gaston won his decoration by crossing open space subject to heavy enemy fire and locating the wounded. On one of his trips he was severely wounded after finding a wounded officer, but he was not to be deterred from duty. Back to the trenches he crawled and turning back in the direction from whence he came, he whined and started back. Two stretcher bearers from an American Ambulance Unit followed. Time after time the dog would struggle to his feet and try to go faster, but his wound had caused a loss of blood that was fast telling on his wonderful strength. With a last effort he rose to his feet and took a score of steps toward a little clump of bushes and fell, a soldier to the end, in the clump of bushes they found the officer. By Gaston's sacrifice his life was saved. Not much, you may say, but it was the best a dog could do.

Let us not forget that when Armistice Day is here, then shall we remember that even a dog can do his duty under fire. Let us pay a tribute to those dogs who were our Buddies on the fields of France. The place you have won in the hearts of soldiers who knew you will live when the years bring silver threads upon the brow, and then on beyond to the generations to come after us. No blare of bugles or beat of drums sound for you, Little Four-Footed Pal o' Mine but in the memory of men you are not forgotten. You have earned your keep.

To Mickey, By his Buddy.

ARMISTICE DAY

Nov. 11, 1921, marks the third anniversary of the signing of the armistice which brought cessation of hostilities in the world war.

The actual period of warfare between the allies and central powers was Aug. 1, 1914, to Nov. 11, 1918.

Under the impetus of popular approval and through the activity of the American Legion a well defined policy of observance of Armistice Day throughout the country has developed to the extent of making it a permanent institution in the nation's life.

Many cities in the United States celebrated the ending of hostilities prematurely. In order that German envoys mighty safely pass through the lines an order was issued to cease firing at 3 p. m., Nov .7. This was construed by a news agency to be proof that the armistice agreement had been signed and the erroneous news was dispatched.

Marshal Foch received the German envoys at his headquarters in a railway car at Fethondes at 9 a. m., Nov. 8. Only a weatherbeaten signboard on a tree marks the spot of the signing of the armistice.

The articles of agreement for an armistice were signed Nov. 11, at 5 a. m. (French time). The official announcement was made at Washington at 2.40 a. m., Nov. 11.

Mathias Erzberger, General Winterfield, Count Von Oberndorff, General Von Grinnel and Captain Von Salow, were the German envoys who signed the armistice agreement.

The signing of the agreement was delayed while a courier, Captain Helldorff, returned to German headquarters with Marshal Foch's terms of surrender by the central powers.

Marshal Foch, with characterstic terseness, presented the terms to the German envoys and required that the German signatures be affixed within seventy-two hours.

In the later years of the nation's history no event in the United States brought such spontaneous and joyful celebration as the announcement of the armistice. In every city, town and village demonstrations began with astonishing spontaneity and continued throughout the day and far into the night.

STATE NEWS

Lynchburg—While no authoritative announcement has been made here, it is learned from a reliable source that the creditors' committee of the Jobbers' Overall Company, which failed here late in 1920, has completed arrangements for the organization of the Old Dominion Garment Company to take over the operation a portion of the immense plant here, which the committee recently bought at receiver's sale.

Last week, in a straw vote cast here Mr. Trinkle was given a huge majority over his opponent. This is the ninth Governor Hampden-Sidney has furnished to this and other States.

Richmond — Dr. Cary Breckinridge Gamble, aged 96, known as the oldest alumnus of the University of Virginia, died last night in the home of his daughter near Baltimore, according to information received here today by relatives. ## AMERICA PLANS NAVAL SAVING $200,000,000

Present Building Plan Will Be Cut Practically In Half By New Program.

NO ANGLO-JAP PACT

Believed It Will Not Survive Conference In Its Present Form—U. S. Plan Kept Secret.

Washington, Nov. 11.—America's program for the limitation of armaments, if it is accepted by the Arms Conference, will cut $200,000,000 off the tax bill of the people of this country. This declaration is made on the authority of one who knows every item on the closely guarded program.

That is what was meant when the statement was made recently that the world would be startled at the distance this country was willing to go in arriving at a solution of the first problem to come before the session, which will begin Saturday.

This means that our building plans will be approximately cut in two; probably not quite that, as reduction in the cost of operation, which will follow retirement of obsolete ships or those approaching obsolescence doubtless is included in this rough estimate.

Of course, the method and manner of reduction is entirely speculative at this time, for not a whisper of the basis by which the suggested relative strength or the world's three great navies has been arrived at has been disclosed. Probably not more than a dozen men know it in its entirety. These embrace the four American delegates, the President, the Secretary of the Navy, and a very few of the high officers of the navy. There is not the slightest chance of anyone of these disclosing the great secret, which will remain a secret until Secretary Hughes lays it before the Arms Conference.

Just how the American program will be received by Great Britain and Japan is a subject of speculative debate among those who were instrumental in framing it. They looked for considerable opposition from Japan and thought they could outline a counter-proposition that would be willing to abandon or as least modify her "8-8" program and his further statement that Japan did not and never had intended to seek naval equality with the United States has made them hopeful that perhaps that counter-proposition from Nippon may not be irreconcilable with our own after all.

England is expected to be well satisfied with our program. In fact, one who has seen the American plan said today that the thing worked out to leave Great Britain in better shape than she is now.

The suggestion that nations in alliance should not have a greater navy than the largest of the individuals party to the alliance, which was one of the things considered by our delegates, although I have no information as to the ultimate disposition of it, is not likely to be of much importance, as there is authority for the statement that the Anglo-Japanese alliance will not survive the Arms Conference, regardless of the success or failure of the Conference. As has been indicated in these dispatches both sides are tired of it. The British colonies are against it and the sentiment of the English statesmen is that its sentimental value is not commensurate with the disadvantage of running counter to America's unstated, but nevertheless well-known objections to a pact that seems, at least, to be aimed at her, now that Germany and Russia are not factors in any possible Oriental mix-up.

Japan is likewise agreeable to the discontinuance of the agreement, as the Japanese say there is no value to them in it and the alliance may bring them into possible Indian complications. It has been surmised that Japan might want to hang back in the matter of the alliance for trading purposes, particularly to get (if it be possible) some agreement that would include the United States in its scope, to make certain continued peace in the Far East. England's attitude, it was stated today, would make no conditions of this sort. They would welcome a three-nation agreement, but the suggestion will not emanate from them By what method the alliance will be done away with has not been determined, but the general expectation is that it will be effected by an interchange of notes in such a way as to avoid hurting anybody's feelings.

Charles D. Welch and wife have purchased from Mrs. Charlotte Sherwood house and lot 224 North Patrick street.

FEDERAL HIGHWAY ACT

Th Federal Highway Act was signed by the President on the 9th inst. Under its provisions 75 million dollars become available for road construction in the various states. This is the federal appropriation for highways, and must be matched, dollar for dollar, by funds from the State treasuries. One-third of the sum becomes immediately available, and the balance on January 1, 1922. Of the states, Texas is allotted $4,425,000; New York, $3,696,000; Pennsylvania, $3,398,000; Illinois, $3,246,000. From this last figure, the allotments decline till we reach little Rhode Island, which has only $365,000. Of the Southern states, neighbors to Virginia, Maryland has $640,000; North Carolina, $1,709,000; South Carolina, $1,061,000; and Georgia has $1,997,000. Virginia's allotment is $1,456,000.

The previous distribution by the Federal Government amounted to 275 million dollars; this added to the state appropriations makes a total of $465,352,000, appropriated for public highways in the United States under the Federal Acts. The roads so constructed would, if placed end to end, encircle the earth, and extend from New York to San Francisco on the second lap.

The average cost per mile of the roads constructed by Federal aid has been between $17,000 and $18,000. Prior to five years ago the Federal Government took no active part in the road construction of the country. Today about one-half of all the roads being built are aided by the Federal Government financially.

It is estimated by the engineers of the U. S. Department of Agriculture that the Federal aid roads under construction on October 31, 1921, were giving employment to about 250,000, in actual road construction and in the production and transportation of materials. Without the new appropriation many of the States would have been forced to curtail their work for lack of funds.

We have got some Uncle Sam! Not to inject politics into so beneficent a matter, still, the fact is, that a Democratic administration inaugurated the scheme that has done and is now doing so much to facilitate communication and transportation over a vast territory of some three million square miles.

FARMOGRAMS

Dear Farmer Reader:

Now that we have met through this column, why not have a get-together meeting each week and tell us what you are doing. Domestic animals, fowls, crops all hold a place in this part of the Gazette. It is your own column, so the Drifter feels that you must co-operate to make this a page of interest and value to the rural districts of Northern Virginia.

Yesterday we paid a silent tribute to an unknown American soldier who made the Supreme Sacrifice in the cause of American liberty, justice and principles. Let not this tribute be paid in vain, but in our rural life make this country a lasting tribute and memorial to the memory of all those who gave everything. Farmer Buddy, it is up to to you. What will you do? Will you "carry on" as they did in France or will you be a slacker? The Drifter covers Northern Virginia at intervals and as he too was a doughboy, so he too wants you to meet him halfway in this advance to take the objective.

The farm page for November 19th will be devoted to the dairy industry of Northern Virginia. The Drifter wishes to request of the dairymen and those interested in this particular line to contribute any items of interest they may have.

Yours for the FARM
"THE DRIFTER."

In takng a drift over Loudoun, Prince William, Fairfax and Arlington counties during the past week The Drifter finds the small grain crops growing and offering at the present time, at least, a fair chance of good returns next year. While there is not a very large acreage in many sections, this may be attributed to drought conditions on the one hand, and a lack of threshing facilities on the other. Many farmers tell me that it does not pay to raise wheat, but why not raise sufficient for home consumption. Live at home and board at the same place in fact, not in name only.

The truck-growers in the vicinity of Alexandria are not lacking in lettuce and celery. The crops are showing up well and promise to fill their accustomed place on Thanksgiving Day.

The farmers of Loudoun report that the corn crop is better than they expected before "shucking." It is not up to the standard they claim, but their efforts next year will be exerted to make up the deficit.

Mr. J. H. P. Mason of Mt. Enterprize Farm, Accotink, Va., is a premier haymaker. Mr. Mason has attained the art of curing hay so that it retains a clear light color, leaving a select grade instead of first or second quality. Mt. Enterprize Farm handles the bulk of the milk and cream supply of Camp A. A. Humphreys. The dairy department is equipped with modern labor saving devices that tend to eliminate several men and several trucks make it possible for the patrons of the dairy to receive their supply promptly.

Mr. Mason carries on extensive farming operations besides. In this line the efforts are particularly commendable. A light tractor eliminates horse drawn machinery and helps to keep the county road through the farm in good condition. All equipment displays the intention to lower labor costs and still produce the same results or even better.

Mr. Mason has retired from active management himself and leaves the actual work in the hands of his sons, Messrs. Bentley and Philip Mason. Mr. Bentley Mason has charge of the dairy while his brother handles the farming. Each are scientific as well as practically trained, An example of the college trained farmer who has made good. Pay Mt. Enterprize a visit and see for yourself that scientific methods earn money.

Gunston Hall has a "Mum" garden of which the owner, Mr. Louis Hertle may well be proud, Mr. Hertle does not have as many varieties as was on display in Washington, but size, shape, color and perfume prove that the grower is a first-rate "Mum" raiser. Not only "Mums," but many other kinds of flowers fill the gardens of this historic old hall. Well might we follow the example set at Gunston Hall and make the country home beautiful.

In the line of flowers, Mr. Shelton Milstead of Newington, Virginia is an artist to be reckoned with in raising dahlias. Mr. Milstead has developed some wonderful color shades, and is one of the best judges of this particular flower in Northern Virginia. Quality plus quantity abound in his dahlia beds. If its dahlias, ask Mr. Milstead.

Mr. Boyd Claggett, farmer of the D. C. Penal Institutions reports a yield of eleven hundred bushels of potatoes. Spuds have not gone out of existence in Fairfax at any rate. Mr. Claggett claims that his success was due to the fact that Ireland was represented at the Institution, and other articles of food would not command proper respect.

Poultrymen are reporting good results from their flocks following the moulting period. The Drifter suggests that ration be used that will bring flocks up to a maximum. This can only be done after a study of the conditions and the fowls.

By "Y Boys" Secretary Wallace means Pioneers of all the troops in the city, the boys of the summer camps, the boys of the High School Bible class and those who attended the Lynchburg convention. A good boy speaker has been secured for the occasion and the evenings entertainment will be concluded with a Charlie Chaplin film. Just one condition for boys attending. He must bring his father. ## WITH THE WISHING FAIRY by CORINNE

Stella Tells the Brownies About Lobsters.

"YOU have told us about three of the Sea Fairy's Brownies, Stella," said Lorykins to the Wishing Fairy. "What is the fourth?"

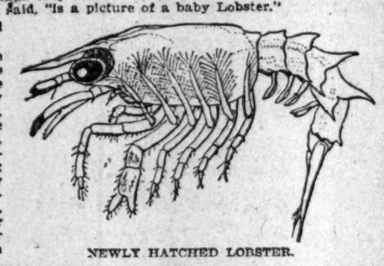
"A Lobster," Stella answered. "A plain every day Lobster. Her Swordfish always goes before her and clears her ocean path wherever she swims. Her Horseshoe Crab does the same thing, her Portuguese Man-of-War, with its many trailing streamers that can sting so terribly, would cling around an enemy (if she had one) and poison him, and her Lobster would crush anything that might be ill intentioned in its enormous front claws. Lobsters," she added, "have awful tempers and are quick to take offence."

"I'd like to see a Lobster," said Pimzie; "I have never seen one."

"Well," Stella said with a smile, "I will draw a picture of one for you and I'll also tell you all about them."

"Oh! Goodie!" cried Snookums in delight, for the Brownies dearly love to have their Fairy tell them stories of animals and things that they do not know about. They crowded around her ready to listen, and Stella looked first at one and then at the other of the four expectant little faces turned toward her.

"To begin with," she said, "Lobsters live in the ocean. When they are first hatched from the eggs they are the funniest little creatures, with enormous eyes. "Here," she said, "is a picture of a baby Lobster."



NEWLY HATCHED LOBSTER.

"Then what?" asked Pimzie.

"Well," said the Fairy, "Lobster babies swim near the surface of the water until they are about an inch long, and you can imagine what a lot of the tiny, helpless things are gobbled up by large fish; for they have no way of protecting themselves. They often, however, swim to their mother and hide under her tail at the first sign of danger.

"When they are a little bigger," Stella continued, "they go down to the bottom of the sea, where they are much safer. Where are your bones, Pimzie?"

The Brownie jumped. He was startled at the Fairy's sudden question on an entirely different subject.

"My bones?" he murmured. "In my body, of course; covered up by my flesh."

"Do you know where Lobsters' bones are?" was Stella's next question.

"In their bodies, too, I suppose," said Pimzie pertly.

Stella laughed. "They are on the outside of their bodies and cover their flesh. Their shells are their bones."

"What do they do as they grow?" Snookums then asked.

"It's very simple," answered the Fairy; "they just shed their shells. The shell splits open on the back—up near the head. The Lobster crawls out of it and draws the rest of its body out from the tail shell.

"When this happens it is exhausted from tugging and pulling, and, besides that, until the large new shell develops and hardens (which takes about a week) it has only a thin skin covering. It seems to realize how very powerless it then is to defend itself, so it spends that week in hiding. All shell fish," added Stella, "such as crabs, &c., shed their shells."

"Can Lobsters walk?" Pimzie asked.

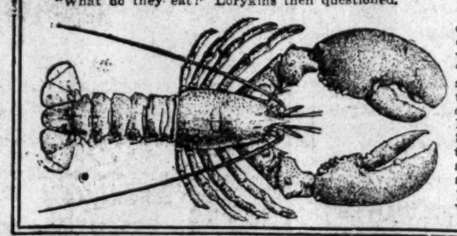
"Of course they can!" exclaimed the Fairy. "They walk with their eight front feet—there are four on each side, and they swim with their twelve back feet, which are called 'swimmerettes.' Mrs. Lobster also uses these to carry her eggs. The eggs are glued together in clusters and firmly attached to her back legs, and are borne about until they are hatched."

"But," she added, "a Lobster swims principally with its tail. Each time it bends its tail underneath it it darts swiftly backward."

"Do you mean to say that it only swims backward?" exclaimed Pimzie in astonishment.

"Oh, no! It can go in any direction it wishes."

"What do they eat?" Lorykins then questioned.



"Anything they can find, such as clams and fish," was the answer; "but mostly dead animal matter in the water. Another thing about Lobsters," said Stella, "is that if they lose a leg or a claw they grow a new one in its place—the same way crabs do."

ARMISTICE DAY

GOD'S PLAN FOR DISARMAMENT: — Many nations shall come, and say, Come, and let us go up unto the mountain of the Lord, and to the house of the God of Jacob; and he will teach us of his ways, and we will walk in his paths.

And he shall judge among many people, and rebuke strong nations afar off; and they shall beat their swords into ploughshares, and their spears into pruninghooks: nation shall not lift a sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more.

But they shall sit every man under his vine and under his fig tree; and none shall make them afraid: for the mouth of the Lord of hosts hath spoken it.—Micah 4: 2-4.

NEWS IN THE GAZETTE
108 Years Ago

ALEXANDRIA GAZETTE
Commercial and Political

THURSDAY, NOV. 11, 1813.

The following striking contrast between Peace and War, is extracted from an excellent little work, entitled "The Plea of Reason, Religion, and Humanity against War, by Crasmus. It is recommended to the particular attention of the American reader, not only for the beauty in which it is drawn; but for the correct view which it affords of the folly and wickedness of those, who without cause, and regardless of evil or religious obligations, involve a whole nation in the horrors of war——"An evil, of all human evils, the worst and the foulest; so destructive an evil, that alone it exceeds them all in mischief; so abundant in misery, that it comprehends every kind of wretchedness within itself; so pestilential in its nature, that it loads men with guilt, in proportion as it galls them with woe."

"Peace shines upon human affairs like the vernal sun. The fields are cultivated; the gardens bloom, the cattle are fed upon a thousand hills, new buildings arise, religion glows with ardor, the young are well-educated, the old enjoy their ease and the bad are kept under control."

Therefore since peace is confessedly of all things the best and the happiest, and war on the contrary appears to be attended with the greatest possible distress of every kind, and the blackest villany of which human nature is capable, can we think those men of sound mind or honest hearts, who, when they might enjoy the blessings of peace with little trouble merely by negotiation go out of their way, rush headlong into every difficulty and danger, to involve a whole people in the horrors of war?

High School Football

Will Play Culpeper Tomorrow for Football Northeastern Championship.

The high school football team held its last practice before meeting the Culpeper boys, yesterday afternoon. The game will be played on Baggett's field tomorrow afternoon. Maury High of Norfolk, clinched its claim on the Southeastern championship last Friday when it defeated the Walter Reed High of Newport News, by the score of 7 to 0, the only touchdown coming in the last few minutes of play by a nicely executed forward pass. Alexandria High will have the "pleasure" of playing Maury, as Northeastern champion, if it is victorious in the Culpeper contest tomorrow. High school's back field is in the "pink of condition," according to Coach Hasson, and the line is also the best in this section of the state. The whole outfit is in tune to give the husky Culpeper boys the fight of the season.

Virginia A. C. Engages Mercury A. C.

After a lay-off of two weeks due to the fact that three Washington teams cancelled games, the Virginia A. C. will engage the Mercury A. C., victors over the Seaman Gunners, Arlington A. C. and the Naval Hospital The game will be played on the ship yard field, to begin at 2:30 p. m., Sunday, and there is every evidence of a real battle. The Washington team will outweight the local team, but that is the least of the Virginians worry, as they are fast and have a sleeve full of trick plays that will set the Mercurys dizzy. The Virginia A. C. is already priming up for the battle Sunday after next, November 27, when the Knickerbockers will pay a visit to the ship yard gridiron, and every player on the team is determined that the "Knicks" shall be licked this time.

STALE BLOOD BLURS LIVING

Gude's Pepto-Mangan Revives the Blood to Healthy State.

Stale blood blurs living. It dulls the love for pleasure, and weakens the spirit. Thoughts sink into an unredeemed dreariness that no goading of the will can dispel. Where there was thrilling excitement, there is only an aching sensation of fatigue.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan taken regularly for a while puts a check to the debilitating effects of thin, watery blood. It supplies the blood with red corpuscles, steps it up to its normal, rich redness. Then it is that the pleasures of rhythmic living return. The smouldering glow of life warms and brightens so that the pleasant sensations of eating, sleeping, walking in the golden sunshine, breathing deep the health-giving air, again become thrilling and full of delight.

Druggists sell Gude's Pepto-Mangan in both liquid and tablet form.—Adv.

Each Season Brings Forth New and Better Shades Designed to Cover Centre Chandeliers.

Fortunate is the woman who may choose her fixtures from the display of modern ones shown in the stores. But, alas! many homes built a decade or two ago, although comfortable to live in to-day, are equipped with fixtures designed in a less artistic age.

The modern housewife, however, is never daunted by such abstacles. "If these lights can't look modern by themselves," she declares, "I will dress them so that they do. And, lo! the result: An attractive centre shade having all the value of inverted lighting.

The illustration shows such a shade used in a room which had been modernized in every particular but its lighting fixtures. On this point the landlord was adamant. The dark woodwork could be painted, the floors carpeted, but the centre fixture could not be eliminated. It stayed where it was!

The shade is one of the latest designs got out by the manufacturers for just such use. The side is of tan parchment with a black design and bound with gold guimp. At the bottom the silk is shirred into a centre tassel and from this tassel hang two cords which are attached to the socket chains and by which the lights are turned on and off. Three blue silk cords are fastened to the ceiling at the centre of the fixture and hold the shade in place.

Jewish Leaders Confer Honor on "Do-It-Up" Brown

David A. Brown of Detroit is the man of the year, so far as American Jews are concerned. Louis Marshall, Nathan Straus, Julius Rosenwald and Felix M. Warburg were among the leaders from thirty-five states who, in a recent American Jewish Relief Committee convention at Chicago, insisted that Mr. Brown cancel passage to Europe and accept the active chairmanship of a nation-wide appeal for $14,000,000 on behalf of disaster-stricken Jews overseas.

Mr. Brown has risen dramatically from a newsboy on the streets of Detroit to become a financial and civic power in that city and a nationally known philanthropist. At his new office, 103 Park Avenue, New York, he attacked the task set for him with characteristic vigor.

"We are going to put this job over," he said, "regardless of slow business, calamity howlers and all the other obstructionists that throw monkey-wrenches in the world's machinery. The plight of refugees, war orphans and devastated communities among our people in Europe this winter leave the American Jew no choice in the matter."

Mr. Brown's nickname in Detroit is "Do-It-UP" Brown.

A Strong Bond Market

The rapidity with which certain new issues of bonds have been oversubscribed, and the fact that interest rates have shown, during the past few months, a decided tendency toward lower levels, can be taken as evidence of the trend of the bond market.

While bond prices are still low we recommend the purchase of those kinds of bonds that are recognized as the safest, as we believe that the investment demand will center on such issues for months to come.

We have selected for your consideration a list of secured mortgage bonds, essentially Southern, yielding 7 to 8 per cent.

Write for circular if you are interested in what the South can offer.

Food---Meat for Rejoicing

IN the middle ages cooking became a fad of the great. Nobles competed in inventing new recipes and unique utensils. One triumph was a roasting spit so constructed that it played popular tunes as it revolved! Expert skill goes into the roasting of meats here, but it is the browned perfection of the meat that engages first consideration. Wallis cooking is free from faddish fancies, but boasts variety and deliciousness at prices that induce satisfaction.

From Woman's National Foundation

Prominent women of this community have been asked to join n a nation wide movement to unify the woman power of the country along civic, welfare, and pariotic lines through the Woman's National Foundation, whose headquarters are in Washington, D. C. A request has been received here from Mrs. Clarence Crittenden Calhoun, president of the Foundation, to organize local centers and to observe November 15 as National Organization Day.

Great enthusiasm for the movement is reported from all sections of the country. Although the Foundation is less than six months old, it has secured thousands of members, acquired a million dollar national site in Washington, and is indorsed and backed by leading financiers, statesmen, educators, and officials.

The board of governors of the Foundation includes such nationally known women as Mrs. George Barnett, wife of a major general of the U. S. Marine Corps; Mrs. Stephen B. Elkins, widow of former Senator Elkins, of West Virginia; Mrs. Oscar Underwood, wife of Senator Underwood, of Alabama; Mrs. Chas. S. Howry, wife of Judge Howry, of the United States Court of Claims; Miss Janet Richards, the noted woman lecturer; Mrs. John Hays Hammond, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Mrs. James McDonald, Mrs. Henry J. Rea, of Pittsburgh, Mrs. Sidney Callou, Mrs. Marie Moore Forrest, the celebrated pageant writer; Mrs. James Carroll Frazer, head of the Comforts Committee of the Navy League; Mrs. Henry D. Flood, wife of Representative Flood, of Virginia, and Mrs. Maud Wood Park, national chairman of the League of Women Voters.

Brilliant Ball Planned For Conference Delegates

A ball and pageant to be given by the Foundation in honor of the delegates from the nations participating in the Conference for the Discussion of the Limitation of Armament will be held at the New Willard, Washington, the night of November 16. This ball promises to be the most brilliant social function of the conference, and members of the Foundation are specially invited. Its notable list of patroness includes, besides other social celebraties of the capital, the wives of cabinet members, senators and congressmen, heads of the Army and Navy, diplomats, and an imposing array of names reprsenting American society in many cities.

The pageant, "The Feast of Prosperity," is a poetic presentation of the fruits of peace, and each nation will be portrayed by a group of beautiful women. The delegates to the conference are to occupy "the Entente Cordiale" box, holding fifty persons, in testimony of the international amity and concord that is to prevail among the nations of the world as a result of the conference.

"AMERICA AT CROSS ROADS OF DESTINY," SAYS MRS. CALHOUN.

In a message to be read at meetings of prospective centers of the Woman's National Foundation, on November 15, Mrs. Calhoun, the president, thoroughly explains the purposes of the Foundation, its aims and aspirations. "America today stands at the cross roads of her destiny," writes Mrs. Calhoun. "The war and its devastation left a sadly torn, unstable, and unhappy world in its wake. In common with other nations, America is in a dangerous state of unrest. Irreverence, loss of faith, selfishness, grow more rampant day by day. All nations, and our country in particular, need a stabilizing force that shall bring convincingly once more to the minds of men and women the homely virtues that lay in the simple old standards of our forefathers, the brave men and women of old who builded a mighty nation on these shores to serve as a haven of refuge and liberty for the oppressed hordes of the older civilizations.

"We have wandered far from the examples set by our sturdy ancestors who dared the toil, hunger, pain and disappointment in a new land to carve out a nation that men should call great. Many of our beloved institutions are becoming less revered, and some are actually scorned.

FRANCHISE . BROUGHT NEW RESPONSIBILITIES FOR WOMEN.

"With the franchise there have come new responsibilities for American women; new burdens they must bear with wisdom and with strength. At the very time when they are most needed, with their great gifts of sympathy and intuition and their passion for caring for others, women enter American life in its fullest sense as citizens; when their influence may be the vital force that shall stem the tides of unrest and turn the public mind and the public conscience back to the realization of what their true allegiance to their country properly demands.
--6z6 ? e :1- do hod om do ohod

"This is the basic thought back of this Foundation. The thought that women must give of their best in the new state of national life into which it has pleased God to call them; and, further, to create a point of centralization for all thinkingg women who have a love in their hearts for the higher things. Women who would rather die than have the sanctuary of the home besmirched and who are willing as volunteer soldiers to do their utmost for the preservation of the highest in our civilization."

THE PRACTICAL AIMS OF THE FOUNDATION.

Such are the ideals of the Woman's National Foundation. Turning to its practical side, it intends to promote the education of women in civic knowledge and rights; the teaching of Americanism by restoring the old simple standards; the holding of re-

CALOMEL SALIVATES AND LOOSENS TEETH

The Very Next Dose of This Treacherous Drug May Start Trouble

You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system. If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate.

Bird Tales

The carrion crow will devour dogs greedily, but will not touch the flesh of a cat.

It has been estimated that a single pair of sparrows and a nest of young ones consume about 3,000 insects a week.

The hoatzin, one of the strangest birds of South America, is notorious for its bad odor. Some authorities say it is so frightful that the bird can only be skinned under water.

Eagles have been known to fly to a height of 6,000 feet. A lark will rise to the same height, and so will crows. As a rule, however, it is said, birds do not fly at a greater height than 1,000 feet.

The Russian Muscovy duck has one claim for popularity. It utters no noisy quacks.

The total number of insect-eating birds in the United States is estimated at more than 4,500,000,000. Each bird may destroy as many as 100 insects a day.

Small birds breed faster than larger ones of the same genus.

The moor cock is a dancing bird from which the peasants of upper Bavaria have borrowed their famous "flat shoe dance" or clog dance.

LITTLE STORIES OF THE STREET
By
The Man About Town

The mile of Belgium block on the road to Washington is part of a state highway. It comes under the jurisdiction of the Richmond authorities according to a city official. "A small amount of money, judiciously expended, would make it a good road," he said, "but we have neither the money to do it, nor the authority to have it done, provided the money was available." Enough said!

The School Board will ask for bids on the work necessary to make the High School grounds presentable. The terrace is in a deplorable condition and will wash away under the winter rains unless something is done pretty soon.

Mrs. C. William Wattles, newly elected member of the School Board, while never connected with local educational affairs was so highly considered by the City Council that she was elected by a unanimous vote. Women are forging to the front in public affairs and Mrs. Wattles is of the type which represents the better interests of our schools along progressive lines.

The Alexandria High School will stage a Blackface Fantasy at their auditorium on the nights of November 18 and 19th. Good songs, live jokes and classy music are featured in the programme. The proceeds will be devoted to the benefit of the athletic fund at the school. A dress rehearsal for children only will be staged on Wednesday, November 16th. The students have worked hard to make a success of the entertainment and they have an unusually talented lot of youngsters who will participate. They expect to add a large amount to the slender fund upon which they depend for the maintenance of the various athletic teams.

Met the City Engineer yesterday. Mr. Emmett C. Dunn is an interesting and entertaining talker. The conversation ran around in circles until the subject of bettering the condition of the grounds surrounding the High School was reached. "We haven't the money available to do it now. The City Council made an appropriation last year which has been expended. The crux of the whole matter rests upon the taxation of property here in Alexandria. Under the law, fifty cents on each one hundred dollars, is set aside in the school fund. Our school tax per capita amounts to only $2.22. This is practically the lowest rate existing in the entire state. Our property valuations are too low. Clifton Forge, a smaller town by far has a per capita tax of $3.30. Fredericksburg runs up to $4.40. Richmond, with a much larger population collects $4.50 from each person. Lynchburg, our wealthiest community gets $5.00 in round figures. Our schools don't have enough money because property valuations in Alexandria are assessed too lightly. The school Board could ask for an additional tax, and have an election called to pass it. That seems to me to be the only way to solve the matter."

The twentieth century girl is held responsible for a great many things but it is mighty hard to connect her up with the falling off in circulation of a certain county paper." The girls in Virginia are all bobbing their hair," said the small town editor "and they no longer need our paper to curl their bangs upon. Our circulation is going down, down, down. When the married women take up the fad I suppose I'll have to cease publication and start a barber shop."

"The cost of a modern superdreadnaught would build enough first class dwellings to fully relieve the housing shortage in Alexandria," exclaimed a local real estate dealer while discussing the Disarmament Conference, "but local capital must build the houses while Uncle Sam puts up the kale for the erection of the man-of-war."

"That means, in the last analysis, that you and I and the other fellow must pay for the dreadnaught doesn't it?" Queried the Man About Town.

"Sure that is what it means. But there are mighty few men who ever stop to figure it out while they are shouting for a larger army and navy. I believe in protecting our interests at home and abroad but I don't want to go broke helping maintain a top heavy fighting force on land or sea. Disarmament suits me."

The mayor of Philadelphia has set aside the Sunday following Thanksgiving as a "Better Citizens' Day" at the request of the churches and Sunday school organizations. Those prominent in professional and business circles in the Quaker City will devote their energies toward instilling the principles of better citizenship in the hearts and minds of those who attend services on that day. How about a "Better Citizens' Day" for Alexandria?

According to the man who makes a close study of economic conditions the average American family of five persons will be called upon to pay more than $200 in government taxes during the current year where they only donated $30 prior to the World War. Old man Sherman called the turn when he expressed his emphatic opinion concerning war.

A small boy was visiting in Alexandria. At breakfast he was given his usual bowl of milk. He tasted it and then hesitated a moment, when his mother wanted to know if he didn't like it. "Yes, Mom, But I was just wishing our milkman in Washington kept a cow."

A very little girl was talking animatedly to an equally small boy. We stopped to listen. "Oh, there goes the dearest, sweetest, little bit of a tweeny weenty puppy. I wish I had a puppy. Mother don't like pets. I wonder why? She said I was her pet the other day. Wonder don't she like me? I wish I had that puppy anyhow. Catch him for me, Bobby." Bobby did.

A bureau of information will be maintained at the Washington headquarters where questions concerning the nation's business, work in the departments, and legislation will be accurately and quickly answered. In a word, it will be a clearing house of woman's activities not interferring with the aims of other organizatons, but unifying and solidifying the progress of American women, only possible in an organization in the capital of the country, free from sectionalism and partisanship. A "Capital for Women" it has been aptly named, promoting practically every activity in which women, not only as club women, but as individuals, are interested. Where no local centers of the Foundation are formed any woman may become a member at large and be entitled to the rights, privileges, and opportunities of the organization.

Pure, Rich, Red Blood Nourishes the Body and Fights Off Disease.

Waste Products or Impurities Cause Many Forms of Rheumatism, Skin Disorders and a Lowered Vitality.

How S. S. S. Clears the Blood of Waste Products.

Your system is continually taking in nutrition and throwing off waste products. This process goes on all during life. But, sometimes the organs do not properly function and these waste products, instead of passing out through the pores of the skin, through the kidneys and through the alimentary canal, are absorbed in the blood. Then the blood becomes poisoned, and cannot properly nourish the system.

Ill health sets in. You may lose your strength and vitality; or you may have rheumatic pains in the muscles and joints; or you may be troubled with bad boils, sores or some other skin eruptions. All because of the poisonous waste products in the blood. Nature now needs help. She has done her best but is failing. A blood purifier should be used at once to assist nature to throw off these waste products.

S. S. S., the standard blood purifier and system builder, is the ideal remedy in these cases. The effect of S. S. S. is to rid the system of the poisons which are causing the trouble. For over 50 years, S. S. S. has proven to be of unusual merit.

Get S. S. S. at your druggist. Use it strictly according to directions and write Chief Medical Director, Swift Specific Co., 721 S. S. S. ### 50 Good Jobs Open

With the wnter staring us in the face, the question of unemployment looming larger than ever, it becomes a problem for national and state governments to solve. No doubt there are thousands of men who are out of work just simply because they are looking for certain kinds of jobs only. By their long training they became adept and skilled in certain line of work and if by some chance or unfortunate circumstances have happened to lose their position they naturally have to do it along looking for another opening in their line of training, and in the meantime swelling the ranks of unemployed.

As his share of reducing unemployment Uncle Sam wants to give a good position to fifty, young, ablebodied men at Walter Reed General Hospital, Washington, D. C. No matter what his occupation may have been in civil life, from college student to farmer-boy, as long as he is of good moral character, free from disease and physical deformities, is between eighteen and thirty-five years of age, unmarried, and can speak, read and write the English language Uncle Sam will take him and give him a steady job for three years. The training you have and for which you are unable to find any opening just now may be the very thing they need at Walter Reed Hospital.

What about giving up freedom and independence by joining the army? The American soldier is more free and independent than the average citizen in this whole land. He serves, yet is not a servant. His service is a privilege, the highest duty all citizens owe this country yet not all able to perform. He represents our best traditions, our institutions and ideals, our government and our flag. He is free and happy as a lark, and why shouldn't he? He has no cares or worries. He is getting excellent food, clean sanitary barracks, plenty of good clothing and from $30. to $134 of spending money per month. He has just enough work and exercise in open air to keep him physically fit as a fiddle and cheerful in in spirit. Strikes, crop failure, business depression, sickness and the like never worry him.

Yes, now and then he is sent from one place to another. There are very few normal people who do not like to travel, and fewer yet when that travel happens to be at Uncle Sam's expense. After showing him the country Uncle Sam pays his fare to the place of enlistment if he happens to be discharged elsewhere.

For particulars as to promotion, special ratings, service with troops in field, special training in all the branches of hospital work, furloughs, allotments, retirement, compensation for disability and any other things of interest apply to the Recruiting Officer, Commanding Officer Detachment Medical Department or the First Sergeant at Walter Reed General Hospital. They will be only too glad to answer any questions between the hours of 7.00 a. m. and 5.00 p. m.
